Not now dear, I have tears in my eyes

A woman's emotional tears like a cold shower for men, researchers find ◗ Men found women less sexually attractive when they sniffed real tears ◗ Tears possibly a 'chemosignal' for lowering aggression, scientist says

If a crying woman's red nose is not a big enough turnoff to a man, a surprising experiment found another reason: Tears of sadness may temporarily lower his testosterone level.

Those tears send a chemical signal as the man gets close enough to sniff them — even though there's no discernible odour, say researchers from Israel's Weizmann Institute of Science.

"It's hard to get men to volunteer to cry (in a lab)."
NEUROBIOLOGIST NOAM SOBEL, SENIOR AUTHOR OF STUDY PUBLISHED IN THE JOURNAL SCIENCE

It is the first such signal to be found in tears, and it is probably not unique to women. Theirs just were the first to be studied. Scientists are now testing male tears, "as we finally have one good man crier."

Emotional tears are chemically different from the reflex tears that form when you get dust in your eye. But biologists have long puzzled over the true function of emotional tears: Are they merely cathartic, or do they have some other physiological role?

Mice can produce a sort of tear that contains a pheromone, an odourless molecule that triggers basic instincts in many animals.

So a team led by neurobiologist Noam Sobel, senior author of the study published Friday, tested whether human tears similarly can convey subliminal chemical signals through the nose. After all, we tend to hug a crying loved one, putting our nose near their tears.

Taxing time for McGuinty

- Opposition parties skewer Liberals over HST with eye on October vote
- But NDP and Tories refuse to show their hand over campaign platforms

TANYA TALAGA/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

New Democratic Leader Andrea Horwath addresses a press conference at Queen's Park Thursday to urge the Liberals to take the HST off home heating.

The campaign for the Oct. 6 Ontario election is quickly turning into a battle over taxes, with the opposition parties attacking the Liberals over the HST, which they say has made life more unaffordable for voters.

The New Democrats promised Thursday to remove the harmonized sales tax from home heating oil, natural gas and hydro bills if they win the election, and would scrap $850 million a year in corporate tax cuts to offset the lost revenue.

More than 100,000 people have signed the NDP's online petition to remove the HST from hydro bills.

NDP Leader Andrea Horwath wouldn't say if the NDP would promise to remove the HST from gasoline, lower the rate of the tax or even scrap it completely, a move that would cost the province $4.5 billion to cancel its tax agreement with Ottawa.

"The HST is simply a shifting of tax burden off the corporate sector onto the backs of individuals." NDP LEADER ANDREA HORWATH

The Progressive Conservatives, meanwhile, said "everything is on the table" when it comes to providing tax relief for voters. But they say they would not cancel the planned corporate tax cuts, which are worth $1.4 billion this year and $1.8 billion in 2012-13.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

In their defence

- The Liberals defend the HST as a necessary measure to make Ontario businesses more competitive and the province more attractive to investors and help create hundreds of thousands of new jobs.
- Remaining vague is unfair to voters and the Tories should stop playing coy and start telling people now exactly what they would do differently, said Finance Minister Dwight Duncan.
- Duncan says he thinks as much as most Ontarians probably don't like it, "I think they understand it."

Premier may not serve full 3rd term?

Premier Dalton McGuinty is hinting he may not serve a full third term if his Liberal party wins re-election in October, a broadcast report says.

In an interview with CTV News, McGuinty hedged about his future when asked if he would serve out four years.

McGuinty responded that he was "not going to speculate as to how long," but said he was committed to seeing through the policies the Liberals have put in place.

McGuinty, 55, was first elected to represent Ottawa South in 1990 and became party leader in 1996.

He led the Liberals to a majority government in 2003 and then held on to power in 2007.

Celebrations subdued for Copts after terror attack

MP Jim Karygiannis urges the federal government to provide protection for the Coptic community

Coptic Orthodox leaders across Canada placed their faith in God to keep their flocks safe as they gathered for Christmas Eve mass Thursday night, less than a week after a deadly terrorist attack in Egypt.

Coptic churches throughout the country boosted security measures in the wake of the New Year's Day attack in Alexandria, and many said police have pledged to keep watch during the holiday.

"As much as we appreciate that, our security's in God," said Rev. Marcos Marcos of St. Mark's Coptic Orthodox Church in northeast Toronto, a sentiment echoed by his peers in other Toronto-area and Montreal churches.

Rev. Tadros El-Masry of the Virgin Mary Coptic Orthodox Church in Longueuil, just south of Montreal, said his congregation is "concerned, but not afraid."

Still, the attack weighed heavily on the Canadian Coptic community, with many churches cancelling part of their Christmas celebrations out of solidarity for the victims and their families.

Background

- The Canadian government has condemned threats made on an al-Qaida website, Shumukh al Islam, that lists more than 100 Copts living in Canada and others around the world.
- The attack in Alexandria on New Year's Day left at least 23 people dead, sparking riots in Egypt and causing alarm across Europe and North America.
- Canada is believed to be home to the largest Coptic diaspora after the United States. Conservative estimates suggest there are nearly 250,000 Copts here, with most living in Eastern Canada.

In Toronto and Montreal, areas with the most Coptic Orthodox churches, many called off the "social and fun parts" of the holiday, such as festive meals.

"Usually, we receive some people who are coming to wish us merry Christmas and all these things, but it was cancelled because we are not celebrating Christmas the usual way ... because of the happenings in Alexandria," Marcos said Thursday.

"It's a sad Christmas."

The church won't be holding its traditional celebratory meal after the holiday mass, either, the priest said. The mass is expected to draw as many as 1,500 people.

The Ti Agia Maria and St. Demiana Coptic Orthodox Church in west Toronto has also cancelled the banquet and kids' activities that traditionally take place after the Christmas Eve liturgy, according to member Mark Mankarious.

Meanwhile, the Virgin Mary church is sending the funds it would have spent on games and festivities to the families of the victims in Egypt, El-Masry said.

Liberal MP Jim Karygiannis, a member of the Canadian Coptic Parliamentary Friendship Association, said Thursday there's been "a slowdown on the festive season" due to safety concerns.

"They're really worried," though many are downplaying their fears, he said Thursday.

Housing prices to rise: Report

CREA's take

- The Canadian Real Estate Association has predicted prices will fall by 1.3 per cent to a national average of $326,000 this year, tied to weakness in B.C. and Ontario. It has also forecasted a nine per cent decline in sales.
- Preliminary reports from Toronto and Vancouver indicate 2010 declined as expected. Sales were down by one per cent compared with 2009 in Toronto, while the average home selling price was $431,463, up nine per cent from 2009.

The Canadian real estate market will follow a similar pattern this year as that seen in 2010 as buyers pull sales forward into the early months in anticipation of higher interest rates, according to a report from one of Canada's largest real estate firms.

The aftershocks of the recession, including a lingering low interest rate environment, will continue to influence the Canadian real estate market in 2011 — a year that will be stronger than expected, said the report released Thursday by Royal LePage.

Royal LePage predicts that average home prices will rise three per cent to $348,600 in 2011, driven largely by a rush to buy in the first half of the year in advance of anticipated interest and mortgage rate hikes in the second half.

However, the number of transactions will be slightly lower than last year and activity will be modestly closer to the norm because the pull-forward phenomenon last year was exacerbated by a tightening of mortgage qualification rules and the introduction of the HST in Ontario and B.C. in the middle of the year. Grits woo Thomson: Sources

But former Toronto mayoral candidate dismisses talk of running for control of provincial NDP riding as 'pure speculation'

Former mayoral hopeful Sarah Thomson is poised to become the Liberal candidate in the NDP-held riding of Parkdale-High Park, the Toronto Star has learned.

Sources say Thomson, who has been wooed by the Liberals since abandoning her municipal bid last year to support former deputy premier George Smitherman over eventual winner Rob Ford, is expected to run against NDP MPP Cheri DiNovo this fall.

Liberal insiders say her aggressive campaigning for Smitherman and her proven track record as a successful businesswoman make her the perfect candidate to tackle one of the NDP's brightest stars in the Oct. 6 election.

But Thomson Thursday brushed aside such talk, saying she is still trying to pay off her debt from the Toronto municipal election. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

GTA man among 3 charged in alleged fraud

A Montreal-area couple and a Mississauga man are to appear in a Brampton court on Friday charged in what the RCMP are calling a large citizenship and tax fraud.

The RCMP alleges that about 300 foreign nationals not residing in Canada used fraudulent means to obtain Canadian citizenship and Canadian travel documents.

Facing charges are Ahmad el-Akhal, 62, and his wife Tahani Mohamad Hassan el-Akhal, 53, of L'ile-Bizard, Que., and Hussam Hassan Ali Saif, 44 of Mississauga.

Ahmad el-Akhal faces a total of 58 charges under the Citizenship Act, Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Criminal Code, while his wife is charged with possession of proceeds obtained by crime.

Saif faces three charges under the Citizenship Act and one Criminal Code charge of conspiracy. THE CANADIAN PRESS

RCMP warns of credit card scam

N.L. police have received several reports of suspicious calls placed by supposed card-company security agents

The RCMP is warning of a sophisticated credit card scam that's spreading across the country and involves people being asked to hand over their security information to fraudsters.

The caller is looking for the three-digit security number on the back of their MasterCard or Visa — a critical piece of information that would allow them to make purchases with the card.

Cpl. Vicki Chalker said the difference with this ruse is that the callers already have the person's address, phone number and credit card number, and claim that they're investigating unusual purchases.

"This is, as far as I'm concerned, one of the most sophisticated schemes I've seen," she said from St. John's, N.L.

"They're really doing a remarkable job at fraudulently obtaining our information, so the public needs to be very vigilant in securing their personal information."

Chalker said fewer than 10 people have reported the calls in the province, and that police were alerted to it by the Royal Bank on Wednesday.

"They've made their way from southern Alberta to the East Coast and this is happening all over Canada now," she said.

She said people should never hand over personal information over the phone and should instead contact the credit card company directly if they have any concerns.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Step by step

Cpl. Vicki Chalker of the RCMP explained how the scam works.

- The caller indicates they're with Visa or MasterCard's security and fraud department, and are checking on an unusual purchase.
- The caller reads off and confirms the cardholder's mailing address, making it seem like a legitimate call.
- The caller asks the cardholder whether they've bought a $497 device and when they say no, tells them they will be reimbursed for it.
- In order to complete the transaction, the caller says they need the security numbers on the back of the credit card.

Alberta blamed for CPP delays

Nova Scotia's government is accusing Alberta of standing in the way of expanding the Canada Pension Plan, saying the western province is opposed to change because it is locked in by ideology.

Graham Steele, Nova Scotia's finance minister, was responding to comments made Wednesday by Canada's new junior finance minister, Ted Menzies, who said any move to help people save for retirement by enhancing the public pension plan is a long way off.

Menzies, an Albertan, said reforms will have to wait because increased premiums could hurt the economic recovery.

Something fishy going on in the bay

Two million dead fish wash up in Maryland Mystery deepens as mass deaths pile up worldwide

What's going on in the animal world?

That's the question as mysterious animal deaths continue to pile up.

Thursday, authorities in Maryland were investigating after about two million fish washed up in Chesapeake Bay.

It's just the latest in a string of baffling animal deaths reported around the world.

The growing list of casualties includes birds, fish and crabs coming up dead in Arkansas, England, Sweden and New Zealand.

On New Year's Eve, more than 3,000 red-winged blackbirds inexplicably fell from the skies in Arkansas. And officials agree they will probably never know the cause.

Yes, it's baffling

Mysterious animal deaths are turning up all over the world. Three examples:

- New Zealand: Hundreds of snapper fish were found dead on the beaches of Coromandel Peninsula on Tuesday. Many had their eyes missing.
- England: More than 40,000 Velvet swimming crabs were found on the Thanet shoreline. Possible reason? Hypothermia.
- Sweden: Fifty jackdaws were found dead Wednesday on a Stockholm street.

Reform needed to stop spills: Report

Findings suggest BP disaster may not be an isolated incident, contrary to the oil industry's assurances

Disasters like the explosion of the Deepwater Horizon rig could happen again without significant reform, according to the conclusions of a presidential panel that has the companies involved in the largest U.S. oil spill pointing fingers at each other again.

In a 48-page excerpt of its final report obtained by The Associated Press, the commission described systemic problems within the offshore oil and gas industry and government regulators who oversee it. It also said such a disaster could happen again without significant reforms.

The full report is due to the U.S. president Jan. 11. But key questions will remain, namely: Why didn't a hulking piece of equipment that sat at the wellhead and was supposed to choke off the flow of oil in the event of a blowout do its job?

GERALD HERBERT/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Deepwater Horizon oil rig burning in April 2010.

The oil spill commission said poor decisions led to technical problems that contributed to the April 20 accident that killed 11 people and led to more than 757 million litres of oil spewing from BP's well 1,500 metres beneath the Gulf of Mexico.

BP, Halliburton and Transocean, the three key companies involved with the well and the rig that exploded, each made individual decisions that increased risks of a blowout but saved significant time or money.

But ultimately, the Deepwater Horizon disaster came down to a single failure, the panel says: Management. When decisions were made, no one was considering the risk they were taking. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Report findings

A BP request to set an "unusually deep cement plug" was approved by the then-Minerals Management Service in 90 minutes.

- That decision is one of the nine technical and engineering calls the commission says increased the risk of a blowout.
- Federal investigators analyzing the blowout preventer at a NASA facility in New Orleans aren't expected to finish until February.
- Outside experts in technological disasters lauded the commission's focus on organizational and managerial failures instead of blaming the rig workers.

Health care, education are safe, he says Instead, he'll focus on job creation Growth still 'very fragile'

No deep cuts — that's the message from Prime Minister Stephen Harper.

Harper says the next federal budget will focus on reducing the deficit and controlling expenses.

Limited spending will be aimed at encouraging job creation and economic growth, Harper said Thursday.

"We will have to make choices in terms of priorities, but we are not looking at deep cuts," he said in Windsor, Que.

"We are certainly not looking at cuts to transfers to provinces for things like health care and education."

The government, Harper said, will focus on job creation in the new year, adding that stimulus spending is wrapping up.

"It really is the end of the first phase of our economic action plan — the stimulus phase — which has been a great success. Now we will be focused on deficit reduction."

Harper lauded Canada's economic recovery to date, saying it has surpassed that of most other developed countries.

At the same time, he stressed that global economic growth is still "fragile, very fragile."

Harper called on the opposition to avoid triggering an "opportunistic election," saying Canadians want their elected officials to improve the country's economic situation instead.

Taliban fighters still holding strong: Officials

But U.S. and NATO commanders insist real progress is being made throughout Afghanistan

RAHMAT GUL/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ A boy runs past a burning oil tanker after it was allegedly attacked by the Taliban, east of Kabul, Afghanistan, in May 2010.

A massive effort by U.S. and NATO forces — including offensives in the insurgent heartland and targeted assassinations of rebel leaders — has failed to dent Taliban numerical strength over the past year, according to military and diplomatic officials.

A senior NATO official said this week that the alliance estimates current number of insurgent fighters at 25,000, confirming figures provided earlier by several military officers and diplomats. That number is the same as a year ago, before the arrival of an additional 40,000 U.S. and allied troops, and before the alliance launched a massive campaign to restore government control in Helmand province and around the city of Kandahar, in southern Afghanistan.

The U.S.-led International Security Assistance Force (ISAF) has kept official figures of enemy strength under wraps throughout the nine-year war. U.S. President Barack Obama has doubled U.S. troop numbers since taking office two years ago, hoping to inflict major losses on the Taliban before a planned pullout starting this year. The intensity of combat has escalated with both civilian and military casualties hitting record highs.

No mention of John Edwards in wife's will

The couple were law school sweethearts who had several tumultuous years leading up to her death

GERRY BROOME/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

▶ Elizabeth Edwards

The will Elizabeth Edwards signed days before her death last month made no mention of her estranged husband and two-time U.S. presidential candidate John Edwards.

The document Elizabeth Edwards signed Dec. 1, six days before her death, also named her eldest child, lawyer Cate Edwards, as the executor of her estate.

In the will, filed in Orange County Superior Court in North Carolina, Edwards left personal effects, furniture, automobiles and other property to be divided among her children — Cate, 12-year-old Emma Claire and 10-year-old Jack.

Other documents valued Elizabeth Edwards' estate at $496,000 in cash, securities, household furnishings, vehicles and ownership in businesses. She also owned real estate worth an additional $1 million, and she controlled a trust that may hold more assets that do not have to be disclosed in court.

A death certificate said she died from the incurable breast cancer that returned in 2007 as John Edwards campaigned for the presidency. The cancer was first diagnosed in 2004, a day after the Democratic ticket that included John Edwards as the vice-presidential candidate lost to George W. Bush.

John and Elizabeth Edwards separated early last year after 32 years of marriage. John Edwards admitted he fathered a child during an affair with a former campaign worker.

Economists bullish despite new poll

Cheer up, gloomy Canadians — the recession is long over and growth will continue this year, say the country's top economists, despite a survey that has found that most Canadians believe the economy is still in a downward spiral.

The chief economists of Canada's big five banks gave their predictions for moderate Canadian growth Thursday at a panel discussion sponsored by the Economic Club of Canada.

38% The poll found that only about 38 per cent of respondents feel the Canadian economy will improve in the next few months.

Microsoft opts not to crash at Apple's pad

New tablets expected from Motorola, Dell and Toshiba, but not from Microsoft ◐ Many of them will use Google's Android operating software

Instead of unveiling an elegant response to the iPad, Microsoft came to the tech industry's premier gadget show with a collection of exposed computer guts, news about microchips and a shallow preview of yet another Windows.

The uninspiring performance served as a reminder that the world's largest software maker remains years from a serious entry into the tablet craze, raising more doubts about whether Microsoft will ever be able to grab a meaningful piece of this fast-growing segment.

CEO Steve Ballmer mostly lingered on what went right last year when he gave the company's customary keynote on the eve of the International Consumer Electronics Show on Wednesday. He had his share to boast about. Xbox 360 and the Kinect motion-sensing controller that's racked up more than $1 billion US in sales in just two months, a ground-up overhaul of the Windows smartphone software and rapid adoption of Windows 7 on PCs are all real successes.

Still, it's hard for anyone to applaud Microsoft without noting the threats posed by the growing popularity of Apple Inc.'s iPad.

Those concerns have been weighing on Microsoft stock, which has hovered around the $20 to $30 range for the past decade. Apple has seen its share price more than triple since the first iPhone was announced in early 2007. Last year, Apple's market capitalization surpassed Microsoft's, making Apple the second-largest U.S. public company after Exxon Mobil Corp. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Apps for Mac

Apple is expanding the "app store" idea that caught fire on the iPhone and iPad to its line of Mac computers.

- Mac users who have the latest version of Apple's computer operating system, called Snow Leopard, will be prompted to update their software starting Thursday.
- When the upgrade is complete, an icon for the new Mac app store will appear in the dock.
- After launching the store software, people can browse through more than 1,000 programs for Macs. Some are free, and some will cost money.
- As with the existing app stores for Apple's other gadgets, people can see lists of the most popular programs and rate software they purchase.

▶ Blogger Nolan Bryant has spun his passion for fashion into blogosphere gold. Follow his fabulous exploits around town at nolanbryant.com.

5 MINUTES WITH: NOLAN BRYANT

The popular fashion blogger reveals how he transformed his musings into thousands of page views, and what he (actually) does for a living.

With countless blogs out there, what do you think is the trick to getting noticed?
Originality and a strong public image are key. In order to have an audience and to keep that audience coming back, you need to have something fresh. That doesn't mean having a new post every day, though. I don't post just to post; there needs to be substance and thought behind what I'm putting out there. That's the difference.

You're seen at a bunch of hot tickets around town. How did you parlay your website into notoriety?
Society events, openings and parties are what feed my blog and vice versa. I'm fortunate to have a very strong readership. I think that receiving invites also has a lot to do with what you bring to said events: I dress the part and I know how to mug for a camera.

Bloggers take a lot of flak for not being part of "established" media. What do you say to that accusation?
Blogs have become such a huge part of the fashion industry and although it appears their popularity has exploded overnight, it really has been a long road. Conventional media is used to doing things in established, conventional ways. I personally think blogs can deliver the message in a different, easily accessible and more personal way.

The Internet can be particularly harsh platform for unfiltered, anonymous commentary. How do you deal with any sort of negativity or cruelty?
About a year and a half ago I removed all comment moderation from my site. Other bloggers have done it and I don't think there is anything wrong with doing so. I don't mind taking that power away from people because there are still plenty of outlets for feedback and communication. There will always be those who have negative things to say.

Are you doing this in your free time or have you managed to turn this into a living?
I'm a full-time student studying the business of fashion. My days are spent in the classroom or at my internship and my evenings are spent out on the town, going from one fabulous function to the next. It's the best motivation to get through a long school day!

Thank you for kindness

Letters & Tweets

TORONTO. While recently attempting to cross the intersection at Yonge and Lawrence I fell. The painted portions of the crosswalk were completely covered with black ice and there was no salt or ice melter. Other folks were slipping and sliding as well. Two gentleman who were crossing stopped to help me get up and assisted me to the curb and I wanted to say a huge "thank you" for their kindness and attentiveness — they not only assisted me but stood with me on the sidewalk while I regained my composure, reassured me, gave me advice on perhaps going to emergency or at least icing my knee when I got to work — it was such a relief that someone was there to help out.
As well, once they left me another gentleman came from the subway enclosure to assist me getting to the stairs to go down into the subway.
I really appreciate that these three gentleman took time to assist me and were genuinely concerned about my well-being.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO TO CHANGE OR IMPROVE THE TTC?

Lucy Zhen
It's important to make sure they are always on time. People follow the bus and streetcar schedules and it's frustrating when the schedule is not adhered to.

Tony Stanciu
My suggestion would be to make sure construction efforts that alter TTC routes are not prolonged ... I'd also extend the service times by one or two hours, preferably on weekends, but all the time wouldn't hurt.

Not strong enough

Richard Crouse and Mark Breslin debate the merits of Country Strong
Paltrow gets bogged down with a necklace, while Hedlund steals the show

Richard Crouse: The first line of Country Strong's catchiest song, Give Into Me, is "I'm gonna wear you down," and sure enough the movie did wear me down in the last 30 minutes. For the first hour or so I thought the film had as much authentic country spirit as a Muzak version of a Hank Williams song, but it finally won me over.

Mark Breslin: Really? It never won me over, it just got worse as it ambled from cliché to cliché. Did we really need a remake of Crazy Heart? Although I must admit that Gwyneth looks better in a short skirt than Jeff Bridges ever could.

RC: I admit the script is thick enough with clichés to choke Roy Rogers's horse and it has the blandest direction this side of Hee Haw, but I was won over by Garrett Hedlund. He walks away with the movie, stealing it outright from Gwyneth Paltrow, who can't be down home no matter how hard she tries.

MB: You're right about Hedlund. And I actually didn't mind Tim McGraw. But it's Gwyneth's movie to win or lose, and she's horribly miscast. Why not Faith Hill? Or get a Judd — any Judd. By the way, what kind of rehab facility lets you wear a half million dollars of bling as you kick alcohol?

RC: That necklace bugged me too! I get not taking off the giant wedding ring, but no matter what she was doing — throwing up in a garbage can, staggering around backstage — I was distracted by the glitter around her neck. She has a couple of moments though — a nice scene with a Make-A-Wish child and a drunken backseat conversation with Chiles — but the character is so thinly written there's very little for her or the audience to hang onto.

MB: Sorry, but I found that the scene with "Leukemia Kid" was the most exploitative part of the movie. I did like her advice scene with her young rival, which played out quite realistically for me. But the script was so full of inadvertent howlers that the flick will do for country music what Showgirls did for lap dancing.

RC: It is manipulative, too long and while I liked it more than you, I thought that despite its downbeat subject matter — the flipside of fame, alcoholism and jilted love — it wasn't quite authentically hurtin' enough to qualify as real country.

Plot synopsis

In Country Strong Gwyneth Paltrow plays Kelly Canter, a troubled country music superstar whose husband (Tim McGraw) pulls her out of rehab to plot her comeback tour. While getting clean she befriends orderly Beau (Tron: Legacy's Garrett Hedlund) who also, conveniently, happens to be a musician. Beau ends up sharing the tour's opening slot with beauty-queen-turned-singer Chiles Stanton (Gossip Girl's Leighton Meester), and all four end up sharing more than just music and road stories.

News in brief

De Niro will head the jury at this year's Cannes Film Festival.

The veteran American actor and director will lead a nine-member jury for the May 11 to 22 festival on the French Riviera.

De Niro's charisma may provide a Hollywood boost to Cannes. Last year's event was lighter than usual on star power and featured a line-up that left many critics unimpressed.

The Thai film Uncle Boonmee Who Can Recall His Past Lives won the top honour at the 2010 festival.

Plenty of old school mayhem

Season of the Witch
Genre: Adventure/Fantasy
Director: Dominic Sena
Stars: Nicolas Cage, Ron Perlman, Claire Foy
●●●½

The only thing that's missing from director Dominic Sena's offbeat medieval shocker Season of the Witch is the old Hammer Films logo at the header because this is exactly the sort of fever-pitched, melodramatic pulp the famed U.K. studio once excelled at.

Throughout the 1960's, Hammer unleashed a glorious torrent of trashy gothic potboilers into international theatres, movies with blood, hammy acting, action, supernatural hokum and cheap thrills aplenty.

Season stars Cage and ever-cool B-movie savior Ron Perlman (Hellboy) as jaded wandering knights fallen from grace with the church, who are nonetheless conscripted by a plague ridden cardinal (Christopher Lee) to transport a suspected witch (Claire Foy) to a monastery for an exorcism. Seems this waif has been thought by the clergy to be a sort of satanic patient zero who brings pestilence to all she passes. Along the way, weird things begin to happen, Cage overacts and rages with his usual aplomb, demon wolves eat people and the future of mankind hangs in the balance. And everyone keeps a refreshingly straight face.

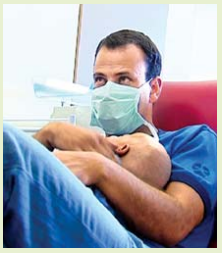
Comparisons to Christopher Smith's current festival favourite Black Death are obvious, but while that picture is a far artier and serious thriller, the briskly paced, never dull Season is only aiming to be a genre romp, one filled with blood, derring-do, swordplay, simple morality and an admittedly awesome climatic monster battle. Snootier cinema journos will no doubt thumb their nose at this film, but this easier to please critic is still smiling at the notion of such an unpretentious slice of old school mayhem unspooling before a new legion of monster kids at the local multiplex. ● CHRIS ALEXANDER

Blue Valentine
Genre: Drama
Director: Derek Cianfrance
Stars: Ryan Gosling, Michelle Williams, John Doman
●●●½

Whether one thinks Blue Valentine is a sincere meditation on the fragility of relationships or an actors' showcase for Ryan Gosling and Michelle Williams, there's no doubt it works: juxtaposing the (possible) end of a marriage with halcyon scenes of its beginnings, director Derek Cianfrance understands how to hit a nerve. There are flaws (like an overplayed argument in a hospital) but the power of the performances carries the day. ● ADAM NAYMAN

Somewhere
Genre: Drama
Director: Sophia Coppola
Stars: Stephen Dorff, Elle Fanning, Chris Pontius
●●½

Lost In Translation director Sophia Coppola returns with another story about a movie star living a sad transient life in hotels and on movie sets, unable to make a real connection with anyone. Stephen Dorff takes on Bill Murray's role and the comic's deadpan humour is replaced by additional listless, shirtless, depression. There's a slight salvation to be had in the touching relationship between Dorff and his tween daughter. ● PHIL BROWN



Precious Life
Genre: Documentary
Director: Shlomi Eldar
Stars: Raz Someh, Raida Abu-Mustafa, Shlomi Eldar
●●●

Precious Life is an emotionally gripping and morally complex documentary by prominent Israeli journalist Shlomi Eldar. It follows a Palestinian infant born without an immune system who must depend on Israeli doctors and donors for life-saving surgery. The heartwarming story quickly becomes complicated when the filmmaker learns that the mother of the infant would be happy for her son to grow up to become a religious martyr. ● PHIL BROWN

Manville gets her drink on in Leigh's Another Year

Actresses performance being talked amongst the best of 2010 as awards season heats up ◐ Learning to play a drunk can take some time

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

After debuting to critical acclaim earlier this year at the Cannes Film Festival, director Mike Leigh's latest, Another Year, is ready for awards season. And the film's standout actress — and regular Leigh collaborator — Lesley Manville, has already gotten started, bringing home Best Actress honours from the National Board of Review for her portrayal of the heavy-drinking Mary. Manville sat down with Metro to talk about awards season, Leigh's improvisational style and playing drunk.

Congratulations on the National Board of Review win.
Thank you very much. It's a surprise to me, because I didn't really know about the NBR awards. It's not been my territory, this kind of awards season stuff. You know, I know about Oscars and the Globes and the big ones and all of that — not that the NBR isn't a big one, but I didn't really know about them. And then they don't have nominations or anything. There's nothing to get worried about. It's just – wham! Immediately you're either in or you're out. But I'm very pleased.

How have you found the reaction in the U.S.?
People seem to be deeply affected by it. It's dealing with human emotions and the stuff of life that touches us all — you know, loneliness and relationships and all of that. It is hard to watch. But I think it's brutal reality. That's it, there it is.

How much of this was in Mike Leigh's usual improvisational style?
He makes his movies the same. It's always done the same. But we're not improvising on camera. Once we shoot it, it's very tightly scripted. But we arrive at that point through a different route — without a script. We had 18 weeks before we started shooting and about 12 weeks to shoot, so it's a long commitment. But we really do start with nothing. And he's been working like that ever since I started working with him when I was in my 20s.

Where did your character, Mary, come from through that process?
All sorts of places. It's hard to define, really. It's not an impersonation of one person. It can be somebody I know a little bit, somebody I don't know at all, people I've observed being drunk, lonely women I've spent time with — all sorts of places. You see her desperate need to hang onto youth.

The film shows a pretty unflattering portrait of drinking. How did you approach presenting that?
As part of creating Mary, it came hand-in-hand that drink was going to be a big issue for her. Drink was her friend at the end of the day, going home lonely. I've not played drunk before. I'm glad I've done it now, glad I've done it once. I don't ever want to play drunk again. I've done my drunk now.

Junos' 40th Anniversary Decades Series: 1980s Retrospective
Long before this year's Juno host, Drake, became Canada's representative on the hip-hop scene, there was Maestro Fresh Wes.

If that name means anything to you, the Junos' '80s retrospective is for you.

The lineup, a who's-who of the early days of MuchMusic, includes hair rockers Platinum Blonde and new-wave bands like Chalk Circle and Blue Peter.

Frankie Rose and the Outs
Frankie Rose is a woman who's always evolving.

She's made noise with the The Crystal Stilts, Dum Dum Girls and Vivian Girls, and abandoned them all, creatively cannibalizing those influences to form her own band.

The result is retro pop with a lot of atmosphere; songs are awash in drowned-out lyrics, ethereal vocals, reverb, sadness, lightness and playfulness.

Her new band's self-titled debut album sounds a lot like independence.

Hard Love
Love sure seems hard, especially for a married couple who have chosen their respective beliefs over each other; one becomes an atheist, the other remains ultra-Orthodox.

Twenty years later, the children from their second marriages fall for each other, and love, difficult as it seems, proves contagious.

STRESS & ANXIETY

Seasonal Affective Disorder

By Dr. C. Hammoud, M.H., Ph.D.

#66

■ Recommended for its calming relief from chronic stress, anxiety, chronic fatigue, lack of motivation, inadequate feelings, compulsive disorders, eating disorders. ■ Helps to restore adrenal balance, mental well being. True evidence (Skeptics can call these people): ■ For about 3 years I was stressed out. After starting #66 I' m fine. I don't get headaches anymore caused by stress. I'm more effective at work. I'm amazed. It changed my life around. Gerasimos Kallimikos, 25, Astoria, NY ■ At times was completely non-functional. After taking 2 capsules within 1 hour "the fog had lifted". I take some daily and had no relapse for 4 months. Maureen Lavallie, 67, Red Deer, AB ■ No sedatives needed anymore. After taking #66 I felt a calm sense of being not sedated as before but full of energy and able to cope balancing my many jobs, children, household and going to school. Highly recommended! Diane Lovato, 54, Norwalk, CA ■ I have tried other calming products. for 10 years. Bell #66 is the best. OwenA. Miller, 49, Rossiter, PA ■ Read the Bell website for many more testimonials and other important information.

Lower Blood Pressure

#26

High blood pressure is called the silent killer. If your BP is higher than normal, try to get it down to about 120/80. For many people it is easy to control. If it does not work for you we refund your money. On our website you will find over 50 testimonials with full names and towns from all over USA and Canada. Most of them have listed phone numbers and are happy to talk about the relief they had. No money was paid for testimonials.

Examples: "After 2 weeks BP down from 138/98 to 111/74!"; "Was on 3 BP meds that didn't work. Bell finally worked for me!"; "Bell blood pressure combo is the best!"; "I had great success with all Bell health products!"; "Blood pressure dropped 25 points!"; "Finally a blood pressure relief without side effects!"; "I passed medical for my pilots license!";

WRIST PAIN

Bell Carpal Tunnel Syndrome #30 gave quick relief within an hour. I was hand milking cows and began having weakness, numbness and pain shooting up my arms. Pain increased at night. My doctor suggested surgery as the only option. Not true! The pain and numbness are all gone after taking #30. I can do now whatever activity I want. Marjorie Wilson, 55, Dubuc, SK ■ I'm a car mechanic. Holding tools was getting increasingly difficult because of wrist and tendon pain. After 2 weeks on #30 I'm fully productive again. Cancelled scheduled surgery. William Marrero, 56, Miami, FL ■ I was wearing wrist braces. A woman saw it and told me she had relief right away with #30. I got some same day. It worked for me as well. Thanks a million. Diane Frank, 49, North Battleford, SK ■ I'm a nurse and work with my hands all day. I experienced increasing pain in my hands and fingers. Surgery was the only option I was told. My husband found #30 for me. I have no more pain or inflammation since. You have a life long customer. Nina Wallace, 52, Dacula, GA

Wright's love did cost a thing: Penn

Actor Sean Penn confesses that divorce hasn't been easy on his wallet

While he's usually tight-lipped about personal issues, Sean Penn let slip to the Hollywood Reporter that his recent divorce from Robin Wright wasn't cheap.

"I got practical issues," he said when asked about making new movies versus doing charity work. "I had just got taken for one half of everything I had in the divorce, so it's not like I don't have to work."

Penn added that the hardest part of the split has been the change in his relationship with his children. "A much more profound change in life for me personally was not being able to raise my son in a whole family..." Penn said. METRO

A colourful and flavourful vegan stew — imagine that

Meatless cuisine had a bad rap as lacking, until this Mediterranean meal came along

Vegan food has a bad reputation among meat eaters.

It's typically portrayed as bland or somehow lacking bold flavours.

However, this stew is anything but. It is flavourful, colourful and full-bodied.

It doesn't require a trip to the natural foods store. It doesn't even contain any soy or vegetable meat-wannabe products. Vegan food is a celebration of produce, as is this stew.

Preparation:

1. In a large saucepan over medium, heat the olive oil. Add the garlic, shallots and onions and saute until soft and translucent, about 6 to 7 minutes.
2. Add tomatoes, broth, rosemary and barley, then bring to a simmer. Cover and continue to cook until barley is tender, about 50 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking.
3. Stir in the roasted red peppers, baby spinach, olives and water. Cook until the spinach is wilted, about 2 minutes. Season with salt and black pepper.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ingredients:

- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 shallots, finely chopped
- 2 yellow onions, diced
- 796-ml (28-ounce) can chopped tomatoes, preferably fire-roasted
- 1 litre (4 cups) vegetable broth
- 2 sprigs fresh rosemary, minced
- 375 ml (1 1/2 cups) pearl barley
- 341-ml (12-oz) jar roasted red peppers, drained and cut into strips
- 140 g (5 oz) fresh baby spinach
- 125 ml (1/2 cup) castelvetrano olives, pitted and sliced
- 250 ml (1 cup) water
- Salt and ground black pepper, to taste

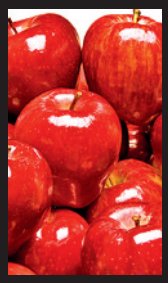
Fresh food tips



Did you know that North Americans throw away nearly half of their food, uneaten?

Sue Mah, a registered dietitian, has a few tips to help you keep your groceries fresh for longer.

- Keep apples in the fridge in a perforated plastic bag. Apples left at room temperature will soften 10 times faster.
- Wrap washed and dried lettuce leaves in damp paper towels.
- Keep milk and eggs in the coldest part of the fridge, not on the door.
- Store raw meat on the bottom shelf of the fridge.
- Keep whole wheat flour, brown rice and ground flax in the fridge to help them last longer.

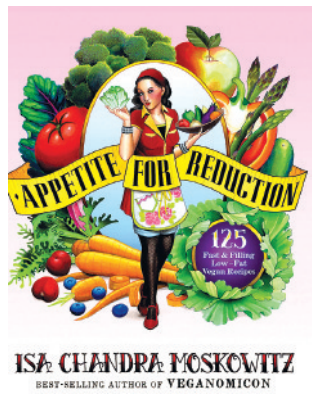
Veganism goes mainstream

Vegan cookbooks are becoming increasingly popular.



You've come a long way, vegan.

Once mocked as a fringe diet for sandal-wearing health food store workers, veganism is moving from marginal to mainstream.

The vegan Skinny Bitch diet books are bestsellers, vegan staples, such as tempeh and tofu, can be purchased at any supermarket, and some chain restaurants eagerly promote their plant-only menu items.

Today's vegans are urban hipsters, suburban moms, college students and even professional athletes.

"It's definitely more diverse. It's not what you would picture 20 years ago, which is kind of hippie, crunchy," said Isa Chandra Moskowitz, author of vegan cookbooks like the new Appetite for Reduction.

She says it's easier being a vegan now because there is more local produce available.

"It's not just steamed vegetables anymore and brown rice and lentils," she said.

Veganism is essentially hard-core vegetarianism. While a vegetarian might butter her bagel or eat a cake made with eggs, vegans shun all animal products: No meat, no cheese, no eggs, no honey, no mayonnaise.

In a 2009 survey, advocates at the not-for-profit Vegetarian Resource Group reported about one per cent of Americans are vegan, roughly a third of the people who reported being vegetarians.

Actress Alicia Silverstone added a dose of star power to the vegan cause recently with The Kind Diet, a No. 1 bestseller.

Meanwhile, Bill Clinton, known for his burger-loving ways when president, has credited his trim build at his daughter Chelsea's wedding this summer to a "plant-based diet" (though he eats a little fish sometimes).

Even former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson has talked up his vegan diet.

Vegan facts

Abstaining from animal products is a practice found in many cultures. But veganism struggles for traction in meat-loving North America. Here's some facts about its increasing popularity.

Ethical vegans
Ethical vegans have a moral aversion to harming animals for human consumption.

Cookbooks
Vegan cookbooks are coming out at a fast rate. Da Capo Press' 20 vegan cookbooks in print include one on vegan soul food. There's one of vegan recipes containing alcohol, and The Tipsy Vegan, is upcoming.

Restaurant trend
More than half the 1,500 chefs polled by the National Restaurant Association for its new What's Hot in 2011 list included vegan entrees as a hot trend. Vegan entrees came in at No. 71 out of 226 trends, beating out organic beer.

Jamaica: More than jerk

▶ There's a lot more to Jamaican cuisine than jerk chicken or pork ▶ Be sure to discover what's on the menu in this colourful Caribbean country ▶ You can eat well on any budget

RYAN BORROFF
TRAVEL@METRONEWS.CA

If you thought Jamaican food began and ended with jerk chicken, you'll be greatly surprised by the colour and quality of the cuisine in Jamaica.

Ackee and saltfish may be the national dish, but it's really the least interesting option in Jamaica.

Price-wise you can eat as well as you can afford — there are some world-class restaurants in Jamaica — but even by the roadside great food can be eaten for little money.

Jamaica's famous jerk meat is best near the capital Kingston and the north coast, while the best seafood can be found on the quieter south coast.

For award-winning jerk chicken try Scotchies at Drax Hall, near Ocho Rios, just east of Montego Bay.

Here jerk meat is cooked the traditional way in a pit in the ground, using tree bark to flavour the meat. It's a no-frills, roadside eatery where you eat at open-air tables.

Similarly, you can sample the delicious vegan "Ital" food that is the diet of the clean-living Rastafarian.

It is pure, unprocessed and delicious, with dishes that include tasty vegetarian stews, curries and fresh juices.

Find it at street stalls throughout the country.

Top 3 dishes

- Ackee and saltfish. The national dish consists of salt cod fried with boiled ackee, onions, scotch bonnet peppers, tomatoes and spices.
- Jerk chicken. Jerk chicken and its sibling jerk pork are Jamaica's BBQ staple. Meat is dry-rubbed or wet-marinated with a hot spice mixture before being grilled over aromatic hardwood charcoal, usually in a steel drum jerk pan.
- Peppered shrimp. How this dish can taste as good as it does is anyone's guess — it's essentially made only from shrimp, garlic, scotch bonnet peppers and vinegar. The prawns are as fresh as can be and it's sprinkled with some authentic Jamaican magic. Ya mon!

For fish head to Alligator Pond on the south coast. The beach is lined with food stalls that cater to local fishermen.

The Little Ochie Pub is considered the best. Here, seafood including fresh snapper, lobster and crab are plucked from an ice chest and cooked fresh.

Try Devon House in Kingston for homemade ice cream. The beautiful 18th-century mansion is also home to one of Kingston's best restaurants, Norma's On the Terrace.

And if you fancy a bit of self-catering why not try spearing your own parrot fish, then frying it on the beach with a little Pickapeppa Sauce.

If you're staying at Jake's in Treasure Beach, ask a local fisherman to take you fishing, or try the hotel's cookery course.

Quick tips

- Eat. For what is arguably the finest dinner view of the natural Kingston Harbour, Strawberry Hill Plantation is 3,000 feet up in the subtropical Blue Mountains at a former home of record producer Chris Blackwell.
- Stay. Jakes is cool, quiet and relatively affordable. Situated in the sleepy fishing village of Treasure Beach on Jamaica's south coast, Jakes is laid back, with brightly decorated cottages. From $99.
- Traveling. Some people are worried about Jamaica's reputation for crime, but it's safe to visit if you steer clear of Kingston's dangerous neighbourhoods. Do your research.

Leafs blow lead, but manage to win in shootout

The Toronto Maple Leafs gave their fans a heart-stopping win before heading on the road.
Tyler Bozak scored the shootout winner Thursday to give the Maple Leafs a 6-5 victory over the St. Louis Blues, salvaging a game where they coughed up a three-goal lead in the third period.
Bozak beat Ty Conklin with a nice wrist shot in the shootout but that was nothing compared with the move by teammate Mikhail Grabovski, who pulled a 360 while cutting across the top of the crease and tucking the puck in.

Total Football with a TFC twist

New manager wants club to play a more attractive brand of soccer ◐ Team has been without a full-time head coach and GM since Preki and Mo Johnston were fired in September

Aron Winter likes to think of it as Toronto's own twist on Total Football.

Toronto FC officially unveiled its new management staff Thursday, which it hopes will bring the beleaguered Major League Soccer team success.

Toronto wanted to implement a playing style that's both more attractive to watch and produces results on the pitch — reminiscent of the free-flowing "Total Football" philosophy developed by Ajax — and Winter, club officials believe, is the perfect man to implement it.

"It is a big challenge," Winter said at a crowded news conference at the Air Canada Centre. "It is a young club. The feeling given to me was that we can build something together and (play) an attractive style of soccer."

That style, Winter insisted, will be unique to Toronto, but admitted it will strongly resemble the fluid game of interchangeable players perfected by his former Dutch club.

"We want to be attractive, we want to dominate, with a lot of movement also," the soft-spoken Winter said through a thick Dutch accent.

Winter will have some help. Toronto also named Dutchman Bob de Klerk as Winter's first assistant and Englishman Paul Mariner the team's new director of player development.

In Total Football — which the Dutch national team also adopted — a player will leave his position with another player seamlessly filling in that spot.

QB picks degree over chance to go first overall in NFL draft

Stanford quarterback Andrew Luck has decided to stay in college to get his degree instead of immediately cashing in on the riches of being the likely No. 1 pick in the NFL draft.

Luck announced his decision Thursday, more than a week before the deadline for underclassmen to declare for the NFL draft. Luck, who sat out his first year as a redshirt, has two years of eligibility remaining but is on track to graduate next spring.

"I am committed to earning my degree in architectural design from Stanford University and am on track to accomplish this at the completion of the spring quarter of 2012," Luck said in a statement issued through the school. Stanford said Luck was not available for further comment.

Celtics, Heat hot in all-star voting

LeBron James and Dwyane Wade of the Miami Heat and Kevin Garnett and Rajon Rondo of the Boston Celtics are on pace to be voted as starters for the NBA all-star game.

Garnett and Rondo remained in second place at their positions behind the Heat duo in the third voting returns announced Thursday.

Orlando centre Dwight Howard is the other leader among Eastern Conference players and has the most votes of any player in the conference.

CANADIAN SKIERS BLAZING A TRAIL

Cross-country skier Devon Kershaw of Sudbury is used to racing in the shadows.

As the Canadian junior hockey team was settling for silver in Buffalo, Kershaw was winning his first World Cup gold medal in Italy — his third podium result at the Tour de Ski. It's a gruelling event featuring the best Nordic skiers in the world from 17 countries who compete in sprints and marathons over 10 days in Germany and Italy.

There are eight races comprising every discipline and, with two to go, Kershaw is contending for a place at the head of the pack when all is said and done, but the win was sweet.

"This is huge," Kershaw's coach Justin Wadsworth said over the phone from Toblach, Italy.

"Winning a race is something every skier dreams of but most never achieve."

Cross-country ski racing is ultra-competitive.

Canadian men have rarely been a factor. Only Pierre Harvey in the late 1980s and Russian transplant Ivan Babikov have won World Cup races in a sport dominated by Europeans. Kershaw's results to start this post-Olympic season signal a new wave of Canadian Nordic stars, including Harvey's son Alex, who is also poised for a top-10 finish overall at the Tour de Ski.

"I'm really proud of what we've accomplished here," Kershaw said, just out of a recuperative ice water bath in Italy. "No matter what happens the rest of the way, I'm absolutely thrilled. Every year my goal is to win internationally and now I've done it."

On the day Canada won hockey gold at the Olympics in Vancouver, Kershaw was finishing fifth in the 50-kilometre event, a mere 0.6 seconds from a medal and 1.6 seconds from gold. It barely got mentioned. All this in the toughest of marathons burdened with the knowledge that along with Alex Harvey, he had finished a close fourth in the team sprint and narrowly missed a breakthrough.

"It hurt and that opportunity is gone forever," Kershaw reflected on defeat even as he celebrated his current victory. "Still, that close call in the 50K was the most motivating thing that could ever happen to me."

There are two more races and literally two mountains to climb for Devon Kershaw at the Tour de Ski.

Canada's Nordic knight has come out of the shadows and into the light.

Packer defence focused on Vick

With his arm, his feet or his creativity, Michael Vick has embarrassed defenders all season. Unless they can limit Vick and his big-play teammates, Sunday could be a long day for Charles Woodson, Clay Matthews and the Green Bay Packers.

Vick wasn't the starter in the Eagles' season-opening 27-20 loss to Green Bay.

But the Packers knocked out Kevin Kolb with a concussion, Vick came on and played well in the second half.

Except for injuries, Vick has been the starter since — and more spectacular than ever.

So Woodson, last season's AP Defensive Player of the Year, and Matthews, one of the favourites for this season's award, are squarely in the spotlight for the game that caps the wild card weekend.

"We know what we're up against," Woodson said. "We know the dynamic that Vick is, so he's a very big part of what they're doing right now, and he makes a lot of big plays with his feet. We've got to make sure we stay aggressive and make sure we do our job on the back end. Aggressiveness, that's the way we like to play."

It's the way Eagles coach Andy Reid expects the Packers to play, particularly cornerback Woodson and linebacker Matthews, who Philadelphia's blockers must locate on every play.

"I'll tell you what, he's a great player and he has a great motor, loves to play the game," Reid said of Matthews. "So it's a great challenge for our offensive line, the guys blocking him, and we'll come up with a couple things for him."

Matthews has helped the Packers rank fifth in overall defence and allow 240 points; only the Steelers at 232 yielded fewer.

Elsewhere on wild card weekend, defending Super Bowl champion New Orleans is at Seattle in the opener Saturday, followed by an AFC title game rematch of the New York Jets at Indianapolis. The other Sunday game is Baltimore at Kansas City.

Off this week are AFC top seeds New England and Pittsburgh, NFC top seeds Atlanta and Chicago.

Two different clubs from the ones that met for the AFC title last January.

The Jets haven't lost their bravado, but they have misplaced their pass rush. That could be decisive against that guy who throws the ball for Indy.

Peyton Manning has spent nine straight years leading the Colts into the playoffs, tying an NFL record.

Still, this is one of the most inconsistent teams Manning has led, although Indy won four straight to capture the AFC South, doing so with several key players sidelined.

Junior champs get called for boarding, miss flight home

Russia's gold-medal celebration went into overtime. And that prevented the hockey team from boarding its flight Thursday morning, a day after it won the world junior hockey championship. About 30 members of the Russian contingent were asked to get off a Delta Air Lines flight for being unruly after boarding for takeoff early Thursday morning, an airport spokesman said. The team was "sleeping it off" at a hotel Thursday afternoon, a person at the front desk of the Days Hotel near the airport said. A tired-looking Mikhail Zislis, the team's media officer, was getting little rest, though. "I cannot sleep because everybody in Russia is calling me asking me what's going on," Zislis told The Associated Press inside the hotel lobby.

Send a KISS

Show some love! Send a note to somebody special at kiss@metronews.ca

How can my high school sweetheart be turning 50? Anthony, twenty five years ago, I told you I would take you to Vegas for your 50th. Well pack your lucky shorts honey, cause I always keep my promises! LOVE TAMMY

I wish to send a special hello to Ripple Centre with all my love from the bottom of my hearth. EDGAR

Dearest Ammu kutty, I want to be the first person to wish you a very happy birthday. Love you chellam. Suganthi aunty
THANK YOU, SU

To Susie Q, Sweet gal from Super Mare! You'll have more time to ride your gelding Tazz, but our hallways will be naked, lacking your radiant ambiance that flows like nectarous honey. Forget us not mellifluous lady as you move into the years of your prime. LUV CI

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Someone a little bit exotic will come into your life either today or over the weekend and you just might fall head over heels for them.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you need to sort out your financial situation you have no alternative but to meet others halfway, even if it means you end up with slightly less than you think you deserve.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 A relationship has been but under quite a bit of strain in recent weeks, but the good news is that love planet Venus is now very much on your side, so you can kiss and make up in no time at all. Get kissing!

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Focus on what is in front of you at this moment in time and put wishful thinking behind you, at least for a while. Take care of practical matters and let the cosmic powers that be take care of your dreams.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Venus moves into the most decisive and dynamic area of the sky today, making it easy to do something of consequence with your creative potential.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You may have to turn down a social invitation in order to spend time with someone who needs your emotional support. They've been there for you in the past, now it's your turn to lend a hand.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 Venus, your ruler and planet of love, moves into the most open and outgoing area of your chart today, so Friday night is most definitely party night.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You will be tempted to throw your cash around like it's just worthless bits of paper – which is not like you at all. Could it be you have discovered there is something more important than money?

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Venus, planet of emotional and material values, moves into your sign today and you will feel lighter on just about every level. Whatever has been worrying you will make you laugh.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 You're not usually the sort to fall for a sob story but someone who comes to you with a tale of woe today will get your full attention.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Make good use of your talent for getting people with very different personalities to work together toward a common goal. Take the lead and show them how much can be achieved if, for once, you all pull in the same direction.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Get tough with someone who is giving you a hard time. You may be a nice guy by nature but you don't have to put up with this sort of nonsense.

LOOK AGAIN

SPOT THE 10 DIFFERENCES IN THESE TWO IMAGES.

Barcelona, Spain – A local street performer shows-off his fire-blowing skills in the city square. Hoola girl might be momentarily amused, but we're pretty sure she'll go back to checking out the all-new 2011 Chevrolet Cruze.
